Aaron and I each took 25mg 2-CD. about 11:00AM. The material was remarkably terrible in taste and, we were in somewhat of a serious mood as we took it. Aaron has a dream the previous night and thought sequence prior to ingestion of 2CD which led us to anticipate a potentially serious profound experience. The onset of the effects was slow and quiet much light sensitivity for me and I wore sun glasses. Slight queasiness when there was pressure on my abdomen - none otherwise. Light sensitivity began about 20 minutes after indigestion; queasiness to abdom pressure disappeared about 11:30. No hallucinations. no visual or depth distortions, no affective flanges. no insights, basically no changes, but a feeling of intoxication nonetheless. There was no enhancement of tactile sensations except enhanced physical genital provocations. Much like intercourse + marijuana. There was a slight increase in verbal exchange and we developed a case of the munchies! --- no anorexia. no analgesia. The experience was a +1 and over in 3hrs. (A period of enhanced mental clarity during that time.

July 4, 1978: Lone Pine, California.

Aaron: took 25mg. of 2CD at 11AM, two hours after a light breakfast of cereal.

mental set: expected a sensuously provocative material (there had been OH's experience) but the evening before had had a dream in which I was in continuous danger in a Nazi-occupied European town. This dream led me to wonder if I was not about to encounter a frightening area in myself.

experience: material is bitterer than most and gave me some internal revulsion which lasted half an hour followed by very slight queasiness. Then followed a mild intoxication with some sensuousness of feeling not unlike marijuana TG and I made love and both agreed there was some increased genital sensitivity. We relaxed, after love. smoking and talked easily and clearly. There was no auditory or visual enhancement. The experience closed after about two hours with no feeling left over of intoxication or increased mental clarity.

conclusion +1; subjective feeling that the dosage was a bit light or that the substance itself is very mild in effect.
